GRIFFITH GETS RAISE.

Marager of Senators Gets Expression of Appreciation.

Just before Clark Griffith started for his home in Montana for a month of EASY TO AMEND ton American League chib, in meeting assembled, came across with a $3,000 raise in Griffith's salary, which means hat he will pull down $10,000 H 1913. he same amount called for under his ontract with Garry Herrmann at Cininnati in 1911.

The Scrators' manager, however, probably netted more money with the Senators last year than while he was boss of the Reds for the reason that in accepting a Washington contract he insisted upon securing a large block of the club's stock, the dividends upon which for 1912 will figure up considerably more than the difference in the two salaries. The action of the Washington directors was a neat expression of their appreciation of Griffith's work in putting Washington well up in the race, and he certainly deserves the increase.
